ISSUE 24

Happy New Year to you all!

None of us doubt that 2009 will present us with challenges, and we believe it will be especially important to keep in regular contact in these difficult times. To keep you up to date with developments and opportunities, we post four issues of our trade guide every year, and up to seven trade e-newsletters to those of you who have registered (just phone or email us).

Cicerone has enjoyed steady growth over several years, (unlike more general 'Travel' guides) as a result of our great books, regular targeted marketing, and above all the efforts of you, our trade customers. Our sales have continued to do well, even in recent months.

Your customers may be spending less, but books remain a relatively inexpensive purchase, fuelling dreams, and providing inspiration for inexpensive and healthy leisure pursuits.

NEW CICERONE CATALOGUE FOR 2009

Our new catalogue has all the details you need. There is something for everyone this year – exciting new titles such as a new guide to Walking in Austria (Kev Reynolds), The Ridges of England, Wales and Ireland by Dan Bailey, author of the best-selling Scotland's Mountain Ridges and two more Lakeland Fellranger guides to name just a few. Also some important new editions of trusted guides such as The Isle of Skye, Tour of the Vanoise, the Pyrenean Haute Route and, later in the year, Mark Richards' White Peak Walks guides.

January sees the publication of Italy's Sibillini National Park and two new editions – Walking in Madeira and Walking in the Isles of Scilly. The Sibillini National Park is easily accessible from Rome, and is a really stunning area for both spring and autumn walking. All these books are being well publicised.

February titles include Tour of the Queyras, an ideal first Alpine trek, Cycling the Canal du Midi, and a guide to Walking on the Orkney and Shetland Isles.
